CSN Short Film Showcase Features Award-Winning Student Work

Ten short films produced by CSN students will be featured at the popular event

September 20, 2019 – The College of Southern Nevada is proud to announce the 8th Annual Short Film Showcase, featuring award-winning student films.

The event will take place from 7-10 p.m. October 11 on the North Las Vegas Campus. Doors open at 6:30.

“There is nothing more inspiring than seeing the results of our talented students’ hard work,” said John C. Aliano, CSN Videography & Film program director. “These films are among the best short-film work being done by students anywhere in the country. I couldn’t be prouder of our students and our program.”

CSN’s Videography & Film students have been nominated for 73 Student Production Award Emmys in the last five years, and have won 38 of those awards. This year, the students took home five Student Production Emmys. Several winners will be among the 10 films screened at the Showcase, featuring a total of 95 minutes of dynamic storytelling that includes comedy, documentary, narrative and music video genres. Following the screenings there will be a Q&A with the audience.

The event began as a small affair but has grown so much in its eight years that the college moved it to the 500-seat Nicholas J. Horn Theatre on campus last year. It is free and open to the public.

Media interviews with Aliano and student film makers are available upon request.
