CSN Career Fairs Connect Employers and Job Hunters

Students and the public can showcase job skills to dozens of recruiters at the events

LAS VEGAS, Feb. 21, 2018 – The College of Southern Nevada will soon host its Spring 2018 Career Fairs, where dozens of employers will tap the local talent pool to fill hundreds of job opportunities and internships.

The first of the events is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. February 28 in the June Whitley Student Lounge on CSN’s North Las Vegas Campus. A second Career Fair is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. April 17 in the Paul E. Meacham Student Services Building lobby on the college’s Charleston Campus. The events are free and open to the public.

The open forum of the Career Fairs allows applicants to meet recruiters, learn about job openings and gather employment information. Applicants should dress in interview attire, bring resumes and be prepared for interviews.

“The Spring Career Fairs offer our students and other job seekers a chance to meet potential employers face to face,” said Bradford Glover, director of Career Services & Reentry at CSN. “These are great networking opportunities. They’re also an excellent way for job seekers to learn more about potential employers. Recruiters will be on hand to provide detailed information about their organizations and the jobs available.”

The wide array of organizations planning to attend include Boyd Gaming, the Clark County Fire Department, Lowe’s, MGM Resorts International, Station Casinos, TESLA, UPS, the YMCA of Southern Nevada and many more. For more information or to host an employer booth, contact CSN Career Services, 702-651-4700.
